Dear Runners,

It is my pleasure to welcome thousands of runners from around the world to the City of Allentown for the St. Luke's Half Marathon. I hope you enjoy your marathon run through our beautiful city and majestic Lehigh Parkway.

Allentown is a city in transition, a city on the move and truly a city without limits! We are Pennsylvania's third largest city and the largest of the three cities in the Lehigh Valley.

Allentown's parks enjoy worldwide recognition and the city boasts one of the highest square-footage of park space per resident figures in the nation.

Sports enthusiasts will find plenty to do here. In September, we will open PPL Center in the downtown at Seventh & Hamilton Streets, which will seat 85-hundred fans for hockey and 10,000 for concerts and other similar events. PPL Center will be home to the Lehigh Valley Phantoms, the top minor league affiliate of the H-H-L's Philadelphia Flyers. The Phillies' Class AAA farm club, the Lehigh Valley IronPigs, lays its games at the 10,000 seat Coca Cola Park on the East Side, where they have averaged more than 9,000 fans per game since opening in 2008.

Downtown Allentown is also a center of arts and cultural activities anchored by the Allentown Arts Museum, the Baum School of Art, Symphony Hall and the Arts Park. The various exhibits and the entertainment line-up offer something for everyone.

I know you will find Allentown to be a warm, diverse and exciting city to visit. I hope you take advantage of the many fantastic features our city has to offer.

Have a great race!

We look forward to seeing you again!

Sincerely,

ED PAWLOWSKI
Mayor

A Message from St. Luke's

1736 Hamilton Street
Allentown, PA 18104
610-770-8300

Dear Fellow Runners:

Congratulations on completing the St. Luke's Half Marathon and 5K!

I hope that you had a great experience. St. Luke's University Health Network is proud to support the Lehigh Valley Road Runners in promoting fitness and wellness in our community.

I am excited that such a positive event takes place only feet away from St. Luke's Hospital on Hamilton Street in the great City of Allentown. As a long-time runner, I have personally experienced the many benefits associated with our sport. Health and fitness go hand-in-hand and the more we encourage that relationship, the healthier we can make our community.

I am also very proud that more than 250 St. Luke's employees, family and friends, participated either as runners or volunteers in this year's event. Everyone who participated in this year's event is a champion - from the kids who participated in the Youth Run to the thousands of runners who completed the 5K or Half Marathon. Whether it was your first race or your hundredth, I hope it was memorable.

St. Luke's University Health Network is pleased to support this great community event year after year. I hope you will encourage your friends and family members to sign up for next year's race. Let's promote health and fitness together.

Sincerely,

Frank Ford
President

Lutcza, Orsson break the tape in 30th running of St. Luke's Half Marathon

Two new champions captured the men's and women's St. Luke's Half Marathon crowns for the first time since 2008.

Matt Lutcza, 23, Collegeville, Pa., was the top male, finishing in 1:09:32. He took more than a minute off his 2013 second-place time of 1:10:59. Lutcza, a 2012 graduate of nearby Moravian College, trains with a group of Lehigh Valley runners that includes five-time women's champion Kathleen Jobes. "I didn't go in thinking I would win this, so it was a nice surprise," Lutcza said. "We were in the chase pack for a long time. We finally caught up to the leaders in the Parkway. When we hit the roads again, I just tried to make sure to keep pushing."

Marisa Orsson, 22, Shavertown, Pa., won the women's title in 1:18:43 – a more than four-minute victory over her closest rival. It was only her second half marathon. She said the support of fans and fellow runners helped motivate her. "I was kind of out in no man's land most of the race," she said. "At the (mile 4.6) turnaround, there were lots of runners cheering me and it was really motivating."

Nearly 2,800 runners completed the 13.1-mile race on a cool, mostly cloudy day in Allentown. The temperatures were ideal for distance running: 44 degrees at the 8:10 start and rising slowly into the 50s with a westerly breeze.

Lutcza bested a tight field that included two former St. Luke's Half Marathon winners. Second place was Terrance Shea, 40, Lewisburg, Pa., in 1:09:42, only 10 seconds behind Lutcza. The 2010 champion, Kevin Borelli, 32, Dickson City, Pa. took third in 1:09:52. Ian Walsh, 28, Easton, Pa., who won last year's title, was fourth in 1:10:42 and David Strauss, 21, Orefield, Pa., captured fifth in 1:11:59.

Matt Lutcza, 1:09:32 (The Morning Call. All Rights Reserved)

For the second straight year, Jenny Cronin, 23, Palmerton, Pa., was the runner-up, clocking a 1:22:58. Jessica Roberts, 27, Arlington, Va., was third in 1:27:21. Kristin Karwacki, 34, Macungie, Pa. captured 4th in 1:27:22, and Jessica Chin, 27, Arlington, Va., rounded out the top five with a time of 1:27:40.

Runners from more than 20 states were represented at the 30th running of the St. Luke's Half Marathon, the largest single-day athletic event in the Lehigh Valley. The course took runners through the roads and parks of Allentown, including the Lehigh Parkway, which has been noted by Runner's World magazine as one of the top 100 places to run in the country.

St. Luke's Youth Run shows it's never too early to start running

Some people don't learn the benefits of running until they're well into adulthood, but not these kids.

At the St. Luke's Youth Run, more than 550 youngsters crossed the finish line in downtown Allentown as spectators cheered them on, an experience intended to introduce them to the joy of running.

Saturday's free event featured children aged three to 14 running between 200 meters and one mile depending on their age. The run promoted healthy exercise habits and encourages children to start running at a young age.

The three schools with the most participants won cash prizes from the Lehigh Valley Road Runners. First prize of $750 went to Bethlehem Christian School. Second prize of $500 went to McKinley Elementary School in Allentown and Moore Elementary School in Northampton claimed third prize of $150. The cash awards were given to each school's physical education program in May.

To motivate kids as they ran, volunteers dressed as Superman, Superwoman, Flash and Tinker Bell. Clowns also made balloon animals for the children. Wesley Works Entertainment provided music to keep the children and spectators at high energy levels. Each participant received a free t-shirt and finisher's medal to commemorate their achievement.

The Lehigh Valley Road Runners once again organized this year's event. Volunteers at the race included the Parkland High School Cross Country Team. Members of the St. Luke's Youth Run committee were Loretta Dodson, John Hofmann, Nancy Hofmann, Meredith Longo, Maryanne McCambridge, Christine McCorristin, Jill Miller, Pam Puskas, Pam Reichard, Donna Fogel, Amy Wikert, Steve Dodson and William Benko.

2014 St. Luke's Running Stars

Every year St. Luke's recognizes "St. Luke's Running Stars" to honor everyday people with incredible stories. Whether they run to overcome adversity, help others or celebrate life, their stories remind us how healing this sport can be.

A committee of race volunteers and St. Luke's representatives select the honorees from dozens of compelling submissions. The Stars' full stories are shared at the pasta dinner the Saturday night before the race and can be found at stlukeshalfmarathon.com/inspiration.

This year we honor four runners: Rob Moyer, Robert Cays, Nichole Gallagher and Eugene Birmingham.

Rob Moyer

Rob Moyer had always hated running, but on one beautiful day in December he decided to tag along with his wife on a jog through the local park. At age 35 and 275 pounds, he found himself out of shape, realizing he couldn't run a quarter mile without feeling like he was going to die, literally.

Rob believes that the healthy changes he made helped his body provide resistance to the projectile and ultimately allowed him to keep the eye.

That day marked the beginning of a healthier lifestyle. He lost 50 pounds through running and eating cleaner foods, becoming the healthiest he had ever been.

On July 4, 2012, his life changed forever (again) when a firework struck him in the right eye. The initial diagnosis was a ruptured globe and doctors believed he was going to lose the eye. "That is when it hit me...thoughts of my kids, wife, my job and my health started racing through my mind," he said. Specialists told Rob that although he experienced severe trauma, the globe was still intact and his eye could be saved.

Rob believes that the healthy changes he made before his injuries helped his body provide resistance to the projectile and ultimately allow him to keep the eye.

Six weeks later, after his doctor had cleared him, Rob started running again. He ran his first 5k in May 2013, a 10k in August 2013, and completed his first half marathon on November 3. Now, nearly 80 pounds lighter, "I can't" are two words that don't exist in Rob's vocabulary.

Robert Cays

Before 2008, Robert Cays never gave much thought to being fit. That May everything changed when his family doctor informed him he had an abnormally large prostate gland. After tests and a visit to a St. Luke's urologist, Robert was diagnosed with Gleason 6 cancer. Ultimately, he decided to have the prostate removed via DaVinci robotic surgery, which was scheduled in the upcoming five months.

Robert and his family agreed that it was in his best interest to improve his fitness. To do so, his daughter and him began training for a 5K together. Although training was hard, eventually they were both able to run a 5K distance and both completed a race together.

After a successful surgery on Dec. 10, 2008 and Robert was nearly healed, his daughter and him signed up for another 5K in May.

In May of 2011 everything changed again, when his white cell blood count was too high, leading to a diagnoses of stage 4 non-Hodgkin's lymphoma.

Treatment was long. Five-hour sessions of chemo three times a week and four shots a week to rebuild his white cells were repeated for about six months. Numerous side effects slowed Robert down, but weren't able to stop him. In fact, in 2012 he ran four 5K races, a 10K race, the Runner's World

St. Luke's Running Stars, continued

Half Marathon, and the Reggae Half Marathon in Jamaica.

It's 2014 and he's completed his maintenance doses of chemo and is still in remission. His slogan: "Running Away From Cancer".

Nicole Gallagher

For Nicole Gallagher, running is one of the best ways to cope with a bad situation. It wasn't until her parents' divorce five years ago though, that she really got into it. That year she lost 25 pounds and ran her first half and full marathon. Ever since then, she has been addicted to running.

On September 8, 2012, Nicole was at a bar when someone slipped something into her drink. She ended up at the house of the man who drugged her. The next thing she remembers is running. She was able to get away and run to a close town park, where she was able to call for help.

Nicole found an escape in going for a long run. And every time, she believes she comes back stronger and ready to face her problems.

Her mom took her to the emergency room where a rape kit concluded Nicole had been raped. Although she filed a report the next day, little resulted from it due to her foggy memory. It looked like a hopeless case. Devastated and terrified, Nicole began to train for the Steamtown Marathon and New York City Marathon. Running was her way of moving forward.

Eventually, authorities caught the man and Nicole was able to press charges. She attributes running and working out as her mechanisms for staying sane during this stressful time. Rather than turning to drugs or alcohol, Nicole found an escape in going for a long run. And every time, she believes she comes back stronger and ready to face her problems.

Eugene Birmingham

On May 10, 2013, Eugene Birmingham was out on an early morning bike ride. At the age of 71, he was logging 100+ mile weeks all over the back roads of Bucks County, Pa., but all of this almost came to an end when he literally and figuratively hit a bump in the road while on a solo bike ride. He suffered a traumatic brain injury as a result of the fall and was airlifted to St. Luke's Hospital in Bethlehem, Pa.

The man that once couldn't sit still was now in a coma, fighting for his life with a fractured skull, pierced lung, multiple broken ribs and countless bruises and contusions.

His family patiently waited and after 11 days, Eugene awoke from the coma. The doctors managed the family's expectations, explaining that they should expect 18 months of intensive physical and psychological therapy.

As Eugene continued to regain what he had lost at an unexpectedly fast pace, he began talking about getting on the road again, yearning to run. After only 51 days, he was able to walk out of Kessler Rehabilitation Center and go home. A few months after that, he was able to get his driver's license again. He not only survived his accident, he triumphed.

When Eugene heard about the St. Luke's Half Marathon, he felt it was the perfect way to pay tribute to the hospital that saved his life.

What was in your mind and heart when you crossed the finish line?

Social media has become a popular way for people to share experiences. Moments after the St. Luke's Half Marathon came to a conclusion, we asked our 2,300+ Facebook followers, "What was in your mind and heart when you crossed the finish line?"

Within minutes, responses poured in. Runners expressed their excitement, triumph, inspirations and foods they were going to reward themselves with.

Thank you for sharing your experience and contributing to our community of runners. We hope you enjoy reading the responses as much as we did.

I thought about my friend's mom who recently passed away. We got socks made with her name on them. I only had to look at my legs for inspiration. She was a fighter, so I had to fight through the pain!

Megan Nicholas

I had a seizure a little over a month ago and was diagnosed with epilepsy 2 weeks ago, on top of having a tough training season. I knew I could do it, refused to let health issues stop me, pushed through the soreness and ran the race at least 15 minutes faster than I thought I would. Crossing the finish line was the best feeling ever!!

Oh no, I'm going to run over all of those people standing there!

We parked at the Allentown Fair Grounds when we arrived for this morning's run. On our way from the parking lot to the start line we passed a hospital, and I thought about the people that were there. I thought about them again as I approached the finish line and was thankful that I had the health to do it.

Healthcare worker stops his race to revive fallen runner

Although many distance runners train and race alone, the running world is often a tight, inclusive community. Just ask Steven DeTurk.

DeTurk, 60, a nurse anesthetist at St. Luke's, stopped running his race around mile six of the St. Luke's Half Marathon when he saw that a female runner had collapsed on the side of the course.

The woman was being supported in a sitting position by two fellow runners who had also paused their race to assist. When DeTurk approached the woman he asked the fellow runners, "Is she breathing?" noticing that she was unconscious, her head limp against her chest. Her lips were blue. She had no chest movement.

DeTurk laid the woman flat on the ground. He found a pulse, so he believed chest compressions were unnecessary. He gave her a rescue breath followed by a jaw thrust, an action that helped her breathe normally again. She quickly

"Seeing her resume breathing, opening her eyes and responding is all the thanks I need."

began to pink up, a promising sign she would be okay.

DeTurk instructed the two runners to elevate the woman's legs. As they did she opened her eyes. He asked her name; her response matched the name on her bib. They stayed with her until the paramedics arrived, then the three runners lifted her onto the stretcher. DeTurk gave them a report as they whisked her to the hospital.

His work done, DeTurk looked at the other runners who helped, gave them each a high five, then continued with his race.

"Seeing her resume breathing, opening her eyes and responding is all the thanks I need," said DeTurk.

Despite stopping for nearly five minutes, DeTurk finished the half marathon in 2:12. Given all that happened in the middle of the race, it was an impressive time for the 60-year-old. But for DeTurk and the two other runners, finishing 13.1 miles was far from their biggest accomplishment on the last Sunday in April.

Steven DeTurk (right) finishes the half marathon after reviving a fallen woman around mile 6. Coincidentally, he crossed the finish line with Jeff Lecompte (left), a local firefighter who continues to run every year in full firefighting gear to pay tribute to those lost on September 11, 2001.

Celebrating 30th running of region's premier half marathon

This year marked the 30th running of the St. Luke's Half Marathon. The race has evolved since its creation in 1977: what was first a local half marathon has now gained the support of runners from nearly every state in the U.S. and several countries.

The course has changed locations (and names) numerous times, each location progressing in size to meet the demand of the increasingly popular race.

Since the 1980s, the course has included the scenic Lehigh Parkway path – which has been noted by Runner's World as one of the top 100 places to run in the United States. Since 2001, runners have finished on the track at J. Birney Crum Stadium in front of cheering crowds.

In 2002, a 5K was included, in 2004 a Youth Run was incorporated, and in 2009 a Family Fun Walk was added. All provide activities for those who were not yet up to the challenge (or even interested in) running a half marathon.

Importantly, St. Luke's University Health Network became the presenting sponsor in 2011. With its huge regional presence and a large Allentown hospital only a block from the start, St. Luke's has become an ideal partner in what has become a weekend where we celebrate fitness and healthy lifestyles.

Today, not many Lehigh Valley distance races can claim a 30-race legacy. What makes the St. Luke's Half Marathon stand out is "the amazing energy the race embodies" said Tom Thielen, one of the race's "legacy runners" who has run every race since 2001. He attributes this energy to the thousands of people who run and cheer, the bands and entertainment, and the springtime weather and scenery.

In fact, the race was moved from early March to late April in 2001 to help ensure better weather. John Moyer, another legacy runner said, "The St. Luke's course is by far the best. Running through the park, away from traffic, having bands on the sidelines and the covered bridge make the course very scenic and easier to run."

Fellow legacy runner, Mary Young, said, "I feel a sense of loyalty to the St.

Luke's Half Marathon. It sometimes falls on the same day as the Broad Street Run in Philadelphia, which would be a shorter commute (for me), but I continue the St. Luke's run to reunite with the old friends in the running community."

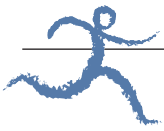

The St. Luke's Half Marathon continues to attract a solid network of runners year after year. The race truly focuses on providing a wholesome, enjoyable running experience, which is why thousands of runners return.

Not many races can claim more than three decades of longevity. Thank you, runners, for your continued support of our race. We intend to be at it for decades to come.

Type-1 diabetes didn't stop Masiuk from running across U.S.

Four years ago, Doug Masiuk couldn't even run around the block. Today he is a long-distance runner. And not just long. Really long. Really, really long.

He is the first type-1 diabetic to run across the US – California to New York. Only 240 people have ever done it. Although running across the country was not a task Masiuk always dreamed of accomplishing, after he began seriously running in 2009, the idea popped into his head and was hard to ignore.

Diagnosed with diabetes at the age of three, Masiuk (pronounced “mazook”) was the 2014 keynote speaker at the St. Luke's Half Marathon Pasta Dinner. He joined a list of other noteworthy people such as Ryan Hall, Soledad O'Brien, Billy Mills, Katherine Switzer, Joan Benoit Samuelson and Sarah Reinertsen to have inspired fellow runners the evening before the race.

The Scranton native recounted that during his cross-country run he spoke at schools, universities, medical schools, town hall meetings and met with medical leaders, diabetic groups, the running community and political leaders. In doing so, he hoped to prove to individuals and communities there are no excuses standing in the way of being active.

Masiuk also inspired countless others. He talked to over 100,000 people, many of who shared their own stories about weight loss or a struggle with diabetes or other illness. These stories motivated him to continue running through the most difficult strides of his cross-country run.

One man took extraordinary measures to deliver a simple “thank you” to Masiuk in honor of his brother who had died five years earlier from diabetes. He pulled his truck onto the side of the road after spotting Masiuk on his cross-country run. The driver admitted hearing about Masiuk's mission on the radio, thanked him for all of his efforts and handed him a water bottle. To Masiuk, it was another assertion that his efforts were not only supported, but also truly meaningful to people around the country.

His philosophy: “running is as simple as a footstep.” Whether it's a walk around the block, a jog through the park, or the completion of a marathon, every step builds on one another. Ultimately, you will be able to go further than you could before.

What's next for Masiuk? In the fall, he is looking to run 50 miles a day for 46 days to cover the 2,185-mile Appalachian Trail in record time. This trail has already proven much more strenuous than his last journey, due to it's often high altitude and decreased oxygen levels. If he completes the trail in record time, it will be the first world record in an athletic category held by a person with diabetes.

Healthy Recipes from Chef Jamie

Jamie McKeon, Director of Nutrition for St. Luke's Half Marathon, takes on the duty of serving healthy and delicious meals to half marathon runners. Chef Jamie focuses on healthy ingredients needed for a nutritious diet. His recipes have also been featured on WFMZ-TV Sunrise show.

Skinny Pumpkin Cream Cheese Bars

Yields 16 servings

Ingredients

- 1 box angel food cake mix-1 step product
- 1 15 oz. can pumpkin
- $\frac{3}{4}$ cup water
- $\frac{1}{2}$ teaspoon cinnamon
- 1 8 oz. package reduced fat cream cheese
- 2 tablespoons of water to mix with cream cheese

Directions

Soften cream cheese, add to mixing bowl and beat it. Add the 2nd water to make spreadable. In separate bowl add cake mix, pumpkin, cinnamon and 1st water. Mix well until smooth.

Using a 9x13 Pyrex pan, divide cake mix into 2 parts. Spray dish with vegetable spray. Add 1st half of cake mix, smooth out. Add half cream cheese mixture. Spread out evenly. Add 2nd half cake mix and spread smooth. Top with remaining cream cheese mixture, smooth. Take a toothpick and make figure 8 all around top of pan in mix.

Bake for 35 minutes at 375 degrees in a conventional oven, or until toothpick comes out clean.

Spaghetti Squash Primavera Vegetarian and vegan!

Yields 4 servings

Ingredients

- 1 spaghetti squash – (approx. 4 1/2 lbs.)
- 1 fresh Zucchini (med), diced $\frac{1}{2}$ inch
- 1 medium tomato, diced $\frac{1}{2}$ inch
- $\frac{1}{2}$ cup green onion (scallion), sliced
- 1 clove garlic, minced
- $\frac{1}{4}$ cup green pepper, diced
- $\frac{1}{4}$ cup red pepper, diced
- 2 tablespoons canola oil
- 1 teaspoon lemon juice
- $\frac{1}{4}$ oz. oregano, chopped
- $\frac{3}{4}$ oz. basil, chopped
- $\frac{1}{4}$ oz. parsley, chopped
- $\frac{1}{2}$ cup Parmesan cheese, grated (optional)
- Salt and pepper to taste

Directions

Cut squash in half seeded and coat with a little oil. Place skin side up and roast for approx. 20 minutes at 350 degrees or more until it softens.

Remove squash let cool until warm and can be handled to scoop. Scoop out with spoon, place in bowl. Should look like stands of spaghetti.

In large sauté pan, place oil in to heat. Add garlic, stir. Add all other ingredients and sauté until hot, but still firm. Place warm spaghetti squash in pan and jump stir-fry (move quickly). Finish with herbs and top with Parmesan cheese. If dry, add some white wine for moisture.

Vegetarian Stir-Fried Vegetables and Rice Noodles

Yields 12 servings

Ingredients

- 2 $\frac{1}{2}$ teaspoon corn starch
- $\frac{1}{3}$ cup reduced soy sauce
- $\frac{1}{8}$ cup rice wine vinegar
- 2 teaspoons sesame oil
- 1 bag- 24oz frozen stir-fry vegetables
- 1 tablespoon sugar
- 1 teaspoon chopped fresh garlic
- 1 teaspoon chopped fresh ginger
- 6 oz. uncooked rice noodles
- $\frac{2}{3}$ cup chopped scallions
- Optional: $\frac{1}{4}$ cup dry unsalted dry roasted peanuts

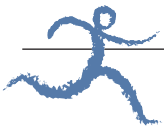

Directions

In a large saucepot cook rice noodles per directions. In a small bowl, combine cornstarch, soy sauce, and rice wine vinegar. Mix until smooth. Add sesame oil to sauté pan or wok until it just starts to smoke a little. Add garlic and ginger, while stirring.

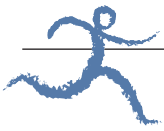

Add thawed vegetables and sauté for 1 minute. Add hot rice noodles and small bowl ingredients. Stir, adjust with salt if needed. Garnish with scallions and peanut.

Optional: Adjust with red pepper flakes for spicier flavor.
